

Daniel O'Donnell to Join Centric Alloys Corp.

DOYLESTOWN, Pa.--(BUSINESS WIRE)--Stainless & nickel alloy provider Centric Alloys Corp. welcomes Daniel O'Donnell to its team. Mr. O'Donnell will serve in both an advisory capacity to the Board and take on business development responsibilities. For Centric Alloys, this enrichment of the management team will amplify the company plans to expand its core product lines. Mr. O'Donnell served as President & CEO of Ugitech USA until mid 2007. Over his accomplished career, Mr. O'Donnell held various commercial and management positions and began his metals industry career with Peter A. Frasse & Co.

Centric Alloys believes this move to enhance product development will superbly compliment the partnership announced earlier this year between Centric Alloys and ArcelorMittal Stainless & Nickel Alloys. "We are thrilled to have Dan on board. Dan has the expertise and people skills to leverage strategic supplier relationships, not to mention his wealth of experience with 40 years in the specialty steel industry. I really like the fact that he wants to develop business in a way that is consistent with the company core beliefs of being customer-centric while valuing our people. I know that Dan will work great with our talented team in providing valued products and services to our distinguished customers," says Michael Walsh, President of Centric Alloys.
